

Modalidad: Teleformación.

Duración: 70 h

Objetivos:

In this third level of five, the student will continue to learn the fundamental tools for communicating in English, being taken from A2 to B1/Pre-B2 level or Independent User level of the CEFR (Common European Framework of Reference).

Whilst revising and recycling the structures and vocabulary covered in the first blocks, the learner receives extensive practice in all areas. The more complicated narrative tenses are introduced such as the present perfect simple and continuous as well as their comparison with the past.

By the end of the block the learner will be able to hold short conversations on a number of typical lexical fields such as: work, the family, clothes and the weather, as well as being able to talk about future plans, intentions and predictions using the present continuous, going to and the future simple.

The functions covered range from shopping and changing money to giving opinions and advice, and expressing obligation and talking about real possibility using the first conditional.

Pronunciation continues to be an integral part of the course. With the help of a native speaker, the vocabulary items and sentences modelled can be listened to and simulated. Vowel sounds and minimal pairs are also featured through the use of the voice synthesiser and repetition.
